K. A. CASSIDY - DIDSBURY

Killed in Action On Italian Front

Word was received on Tuesday that Cpl. Howard Edward Dedels, son of Mr. A. H. Dedels and the late Mrs. Dedels, was killed in action in the Central Mediterranean Forces on October 17th.

Cpl. Dedels enlisted in S.A.R. in February, 1941, receiving his training at Nanaimo, B.C., Niagara Falls and Nova Scotia. He went overseas with a Tank Regiment in September of 1942, remaining in England until July 1943, when he was sent to Africa and later to Italy.

Howard was born June 3, 1915, and received his education in Didsbury. For several years previous to his enlistment, he managed the "Rosebud Dairy". He was admired and well-liked by all who knew him because of his cheery disposition. "Howey" will be sadly missed by his relatives and many friends.

Besides his father, he leaves to mourn their loss, one sister, Celina, Didsbury; and four brothers, Fred, Didsbury; Pte. Gordon, of the R.C.A.M.C., England; Gnr. Earl, of the R.C.A., Italy; and Pte. Elbert, of the R.C.A.S.C., Italy.

We express our deepest sympathy to the sorrowing family.

Police Get Quick Action on Car Thief.

By quick action on the part of the mounted police, the car and radio and other articles which were stolen in Didsbury on Saturday night were recovered and the thief arrested the following day.

On Monday, W. L. McIntyre, a laborer working in the harvest, was brought before Magistrate McDonald and charged breaking and entering the residence of Mrs. Sid Hall and stealing a radio and other articles, and the theft of a car owned by Charles Foss. He was also charged with dangerous driving on the highway.

It was brought out in the evidence that while driving the stolen car on the highway, he ran into and injured a young man who was changing a tire.

He was found guilty on all three charges and sentenced to two years on the dangerous driving charge and one year each on the breaking and entering and the theft of car charges. The sentences run concurrently.

Mrs. Martin Krebs Hit By Tram

Knocked down and dragged 10 feet by a southbound street car as she crossed 4th St. N.E. at Meredith Rd. in Riverside, Mrs. Martin Krebs, believed to be 55 years of age, was rushed to General hospital Tuesday evening of last week suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and severe cuts on the back of her head and neck.

Starr's ambulance, called by street railway motorman Henry Jameson, 116 15th Ave. E., who was in charge of the tram, carried the aged woman to General hospital, where she was attended by Dr. Ivan Dixon, her neighbor in the Armour block.

According to witnesses who saw the accident, Mrs. Krebs had just posted a letter in the mail box on the corner and was returning to her home in the Armour Block, cutting diagonally across the intersection, when struck.

Tossed into the air and dragged 10 feet, she did not go under the wheels as Imeson applied the brakes and brought his car to a quick stop.

—Calgary Albertan

Mrs. Krebs passed away in the hospital on Monday, and burial will take place at the Didsbury Cemetery this Thursday afternoon.

We hope our successor will receive the same consideration and support in the future.

Tag Days Successful

The tag days last week, under the auspices of the Didsbury and District Tobacco Fund, were very successful, and the proceeds amounted to $169.15.

The committee was delighted with the generous response from the public, which will enable them to continue sending cigarettes to the boys overseas.

They wish to tender their thanks to all who contributed, also to the ladies and girls whose "tagging" brought such good results.

Didsbury Jottings By A.C.H.

The Missionary teas are going over in a big way. The second one was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Eckel on Wednesday, October 18, with more than thirty ladies present. Mrs. Roy McArthur was joint hostess; Mrs. Dora Edwards poured tea.

At the last missionary meeting it was pointed out what a help to the war effort the christianizing of the South Pacific Islands had turned out to be. Sailors and soldiers were given the best of care once the islanders found out they were Christians, which, of course, reminds us of our pet missionary story.

The minister pointed out to the native chief, that now he was a christian, he must keep one only of his fifty wives. "Pick one", he said, "and tell the rest to go home". The native chief looked at the glowering faces of his wives, then at the missionary. He replied, "you tell them".

Canada's Naval Power

CANADIANS HAVE WATCHED, with pride and interest, the rapid expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy during the past five years. Before the war, it comprised only about a dozen ships, while the personnel numbered around 1,700. Now there are hundreds of ships and the Canadian Naval personnel consists of around 100,000 men. Canada is now rated as the fourth largest sea power in the world. Britain, the United States and Japan have navies larger than ours, but with the inevitable elimination of Japan from this list it is apparent that Canada will soon move up to third place. This rapid growth in naval prestige is a remarkable one, for it has meant a great increase not only in the numbers of men and ships, but in naval bases, ship yards and the many other requisites necessary to keep a powerful navy afloat.

Record Is A Splendid One

The record of the Royal Canadian Navy in combat is a splendid one. Recent information given out by Mr. MacDonald, Minister of the Navy, pointed out that 109 Canadian ships participated in the invasion of Europe, 10,000 of our sailors taking part in the action. Since that time the largest single convoy which ever crossed the ocean was moved by the Canadian Navy. This convoy consisted of 150 ships, and carried more than a million tons of vital materials to the war fronts. During the past summer North Atlantic convoy duty was carried out entirely by Canadian ships, and in addition the Canadian Navy is credited with sinking 13 surface ships and 15 submarines, and has captured or damaged 17 enemy ships. It has also taken part with ships of other Allied nations, in the destruction of many enemy craft.

Fine Tradition Has Been Made

Although the navy has grown with gratifying speed during the past few years, it is not intended that this development shall cease when the war is over. Canada has established a tradition as a naval power which she will endeavour to maintain in the post-war years. Existing plans provide for a permanent naval force of some 8,000 men, but the Naval Minister suggested in his report that this number should be raised to 15,000 and that our fleet should consist of two airplane carriers, two cruisers, and light destroyers. This would call for an annual expenditure of $50,000,000 which might be considered a large item in a peacetime budget. That will be a matter to be decided later. At present the people of Canada may feel justifiably proud of the part their navy has played in defeating the Axis powers.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Are there any coupons valid now in Battle Bay, N.S.?
A.—Canning sugar coupons, numbered one to ten in book three are still valid and will not expire until December 31.

Q.—Now that restrictions are lifted on tea and coffee, will it be possible to have a second serving of tea or coffee?

A.—If they wish, restaurants may now serve their customers a second cup of coffee or pot of tea. However, because the limited supplies of cream and sugar, no additional quantities of these products will be made available to restaurants. No extra sugar will be provided for the extra serving and cream will be provided for only one serving. However, milk may be provided for one or more servings. Coupons intended for food and coffee will be included in ration book five but will not be used. These ration books must be printed before tea and coffee rationing restrictions were lifted.

Q.—On what date does the age of an automobile change?

A.—Your car became one year older on October 1st which is regarded as the beginning of the new model year for automobiles and trucks.

Q.—Is it necessary to have the baby's birth or baptismal certificate before application is made for a ration book?

A.—Parents must still apply at a local ration board for their baby's ration book, but they no longer need to present the baby's birth or baptismal certificate as long as they have the doctor's or the hospital superintendent's signature on a statutory declaration. These declarations will be issued at the hospital.

Newfoundland Elderly Lady Sees Movies For The First Time

"I certainly do know how good ALL-BRAN is for constipation, and I'm sure you do, too. Now, I'm done with harsh purgatives. I've never seemed to do all I wanted. I'm keeping regular the better way—by eating ALL-BRAN every day."

If your constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, eat KELLOGG'S cereal. A visit to a C.W.A.C. barracks in London, Ont., revealed many interesting and ornamental "pets" propped on the beds of the Army girls. For example, there was "Mudpie" a slant-happy plush kitten, flashily dressed in a blue and white striped sweater, blue trousers and a perky yellow bow under his chin. Next door, was "Peachy," a canine species, made entirely of peach colored yarn with shoe button eyes. Other pets include everything from cubby toady bears to naughty-looking pandas. Every morning after smoothing their top blankets to perfection for the critical eye of the orderly officer, the girls place their colorful pets on their bunkers and dash off to work.

Had A History

This Bible Goes Through Battle In Two Wars

A father and son in the service of their country met recently at camp of the New York Port of Embarkation.

"Guess what I've here?" the son asked as he greeted his father, Master Sgt. Galen Swank, of Congers, N.Y., formerly of Minneapolis, Minn., and a top kick in the first A.E.F.

With that, the son, Staff Sgt. Marcel Swank, produced a Bible bloody and sweat-stained, which his father had carried while fighting in the Argonne Forest in the last war.

When young Swank went overseas, his father gave him the Bible. It was with the son during nine bloody hours at Dieppe and when wounded by shrapnel, he was pulled aboard a British destroyer.

Swank recovered, and taking the Bible along, went to North Africa. It was with the son during nine bloody hours at Salerno and then the drive through Italy. Finally, Swank and his battered Bible were returned home.

LEISURE TIME—

Uncle Sam's Army played gallant host recently to two Vancouver members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, Sgt. Edna Mitchell of Vancouver and Pte. Shirley Granger of Kimberley, B.C. These young women were the first CWACs to visit the U.S. Army Recreation Camp at Santa Monica, California, and the Americans were lavish in their hospitality to the Canadian soldierettes. The pair have now returned to their Vancouver posts, but are finding it difficult to settle down after 14 days holiday amid the wonders of Southern California, palm trees, tropical moons, beaches, and the close proximity of the film famous. They were guests during their entire visit at the Santa Monica camp and ate at the camp canteen.

It was a dramatic day in the life of 2nd-Lieut. Therese Vanier, C.W.A.C. of Montreal, when she was posted from England to Paris. Not only was she one of the first C.W.A.C. officers to enter the French capital, but the posting brought a reunion with her father, and a return to the city she was forced to flee when the Germans marched in, in 1940. She is the daughter of Major-General George P. Vanier, Canadian Ambassador-Designate to the French Provisional Government. After her escape from France in a cattle boat, Lieut. Vanier enlisted in the Mechanized Transport Corps, a British voluntary organization, and worked with the Fighting French. In June, 1943, she transferred to the C.W.A.C. and served in London as a private and non-commissioned officer. She recently received her commission.

ARMY PETS—

Latest fad in the Dominion of C.W.A.C. is animals, the stuffed variety. A visit to a C.W.A.C. barracks in London, Ont., revealed many interesting and ornamental "pets" propped on the beds of the Army girls. For example, there was "Mudpie" a slant-happy plush kitten, flashily dressed in a blue and white striped sweater, blue trousers and a perky yellow bow under his chin. Next door, was "Peachy," a canine species, made entirely of peach colored yarn with shoe button eyes. Other pets include everything from cubby toady bears to naughty-looking pandas. Every morning after smoothing their top blankets to perfection for the critical eye of the orderly officer, the girls place their colorful pets on their bunkers and dash off to work.

Carrot leaves once were believed to be so decorative that English ladies of Queen Elizabeth's time wore them in their hair in place of feathers.

Speech Therapy

Treating Flying Men Who Have Suffered From Facial Injuries

Eagerly welcomed by the Royal Air Force as a contribution toward the rehabilitation of flying men with facial injuries who have virtually been taught to speak again, the first recorded color film of the tongue movements has been made by a physiologist, J. Y. Bogue, and an R.A.F. research man, Dennis Fry. To obtain the film, the authors secured the co-operation of a Londoner aged 72, whose tongue was exposed to view as the result of an operation involving the removal of the right cheek. An article describing this process appeared in "Endeavour," published by the Imperial Chemical Industries. The film record of the tongue movement is accompanied by a sound track. The shots taken are intended for analysis in conjunction with a cathode ray oscillogram of the speech sounds taken at the same time. Such an analysis prognosticates rapid advance in the field of speech therapy.

Stores Of Hidden Wealth Are Awaiting Development In Canada's Western Northland

NO developments since the days of the Klondike gold rush have focussed so much attention on Canada's Western Northland as the building of the Alaska Highway and the completion of the Canol project. But during the past ten years this territory has seen a continuous and progressive mining development which, although less spectacular and less publicized, has nevertheless been a major factor in bringing this great hinterland into its rightful place in the Canadian economy.

In that period the territory has yielded minerals valued at nearly $21,000,000. This does not include radium production in 1942-43, the figures of which are not available for publication. Of this total $6,655,925 was produced in the last two years. Gold, radium-silver and petroleum products made up the bulk of this mineral contribution. Copper, lead, tungsten and several other valuable minerals have also been recovered in promising quantities.

It is expected that mineral production will provide the chief source of employment in this region during the postwar years. Impetus to mining in the Territories has been stimulated by the intensive search for strategic war minerals carried on as a sequence to the geological investigations and mapping work completed by field parties sent out by the Department of Mines and Resources at Ottawa. There has been considerable activity in the Yellowknife District during 1944. More than 200 claims have been staked there already this year, and 70 mining companies are prospecting in the district. Canada's newest gold field is therefore receiving its full share of attention from the mining public even in these difficult times. Construction of the road which parallels the Canol pipeline has opened up a new country for the prospector. Geological reconnaissance has been carried out along this road as well as along the Alaska Highway during the past two years.

There is also likely to be more scientific management of wildlife in this far-flung region to ensure permanency to its oldest industry—fur, which is second only to mining in value in the territory. The reindeer industry too, which has got off to a good start, is providing a convenient and dependable source of food and clothing for the natives along the Arctic coast, east of the Mackenzie Delta, and will form a valuable reserve against periods of scarcity in wild life fluctuations. Considerable interest is being shown in the tourist possibilities of the Western Northland, mainly as the result of the building of the Alaska Highway. No doubt there will also be further agricultural development in some areas. But the far north still remains as in the days when Robert Service wrote his "Songs of a Sourdough"—a place for the strong. It is likely to provide plenty of adventure for the younger generation when the world has settled down to peaceful pursuits once more. Already the Northwest Territories Administration at Ottawa is being inundated with inquiries about the possibilities of settlement along the Alaska Highway, maps of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, homesteading and timber regulations, hunting, trapping and fur-trading, mining and many other activities which are being planned by hundreds seeking wider horizons, who for the most part are busy at war jobs at the present time. In the majority of cases the applicants desire to be somewhere close to the Alaska Highway. Many of these inquiries come from the men serving with the Armed Forces of Canada and the United States. Some are from women and married couples. Some merely want to know what opportunities there are for employment without specifying any particular preference.

Since most of these inquiries are concerned mainly with territory adjacent to the Alaska Highway, correspondents are being advised that all lands situated within one mile of this highway in Yukon Territory and northern British Columbia are being reserved from disposal at the present time, that much of the region traversed by the highway is not surveyed, and that it is unlikely areas for tourist development, homesteading or other purposes will be available along the route until after the war.

It is felt that, in the interest of would-be pioneers of this last frontier country of Canada, it is well for them to know the hard facts, as well as the possibilities of employment and settlement conditions, before making up their minds to migrate. For anyone who has not dwelt for a time in these northern latitudes it is difficult to visualize conditions of life there as compared with his present environment. Only the strong in mind and body should attempt to gain a livelihood from this region and then only after carefully weighing of all factors involved.

But many adventurous spirits will be found ready and eager to wrest the treasures which stern nature has long guarded in her northern domain; and the north may yet yield immense stores of hidden wealth still undreamed of by even the most optimistic.

A Lucky Waiter

Received Big Tip Because Man Did Not Make Mistakes

One Christmas morning James Gordon Bennett, the New York newspaper publisher, presented the waiter who always served him breakfast at Delmonico's with a small roll of currency. When the waiter examined it later, he was shocked. The roll contained six $1,000 bills! Believing that Mr. Bennett must have made a mistake, he turned the money over to his employer, who looked it in his safe. The next morning, when the publisher appeared, Mr. Delmonico took him aside and held out the six bills. "Of course, you made a mistake yesterday, Mr. Bennett," he said quietly. But the publisher suddenly bristled with anger. Rising to his full height, he exclaimed, "Mr. Delmonico, I must ask you to give that money back at once to your man. By this time you ought to know that James Gordon Bennett never makes a mistake!"

Remember Our Sailors

Much Work To Be Done After Germany Is Defeated

Almost everywhere, it seems, there is talk of what we will do to celebrate when the war with Germany and her European allies is over.

It is going to be tremendously hard, if we have an official celebration of the defeat of Germany taking place on the same day in all Allied countries, to regard the war with Japan as anything but a secondary clean-up of the war mess.

And yet we in Canada, cannot afford to think that way when we remember the statement of the Allied leaders that, in response to demands by our Prime Minister, Canada is to be allowed to participate in the war against Japan in the proportion of her population amongst the other Allied countries' populations.

We have bitter fighting yet to do after Germany is cleaned up and our sailors and merchant seamen will be directly concerned in it. Young lads now in training in Canada's navies will, presumably, man ships operating over the Pacific either fighting the Jap naval menace or conveying merchant ships manned by Canadian merchant seamen.

The Navy League knows that our men of the seas must be looked after for a long while to come and that is why they are still seeking dirty bugs in the scores of thousands, magazines in the millions, swaddlers in the hundreds of thousands for the seamen and sailors who, when Germany is licked, will still go on fighting.

We mustn't let down on our care for and service to them.

Fascinating Story Of Events Regarding Tea Producing Industry During Wartime

(By Rosa L. Shaw)

IT WAS liberation day for the old brown teapot on September 19 when lifting of tea-coffee rationing restored that homely utensil to its old place of honor on the back of the kitchen stove in thousands of Canadian farm homes. Once more the men can stop by for a moment on their way from the fields to the barn and quench their thirst with a cup of the steaming brew without having to go short of tea some other time.

Nothing Missing

Germans Did Not Carry Away Art Treasure Of France

All of France's art treasures, including the famous "Venus de Milo" and Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" of the Louvre, are safe and in good condition, it has been learned authoritatively states the New York Herald Tribune. For whatever reason, the Germans left the treasures of the Louvre and most of France's great chateau museums behind them in their hurried retreat from France. Not a single painting or sculptural work of national importance is missing, it was stated by Second Lieutenant J. Reimer, of the art and monuments division of the American Army's civil affairs section.

Matchmates For Fall

By Alice Brooks

You'll meet everyone to know you've crinkled this set yourself—it's so professional looking and becoming in worsted yet costs little.

Crinkled that brings that smart touch to early Fall clothes. Pattern 7228 contains directions for hat and purse, stitches.

To obtain this pattern send twenty cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) to Household Arts Department, Winnipeg Newspaper, 1751, 1753 McDermott Avenue E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and Pattern Number. "Because of the slowness of the mails delivery of our patterns may take a few days longer than usual."

Behind the lifting of tea and coffee rationing is a fascinating story of events on the other side of the world from Canada. After Sumatra and Java were overrun by the Japanese, the only remaining source of tea were India, Ceylon and British East Africa. That is one reason why it was necessary to ration tea.

Now here's the story. Since early in 1942 a large part of India's tea-producing industry has been operating in a front line theatre of war in which tea planters have mixed agriculture with a variety of wartime activities. When the Japanese invaded Burma, the tea planters took part in invasion alerts and air raid precautions, and helped build military roads and airfields. They housed thousands of workers from the tea gardens to the military authorities, and the network of communications they helped construct is today playing a vital role in the offensive against the Japanese in Burma.

In the jungle-covered hills the planters set up camps which supplied food and medical aid to thousands of Burmese refugees. Elephant trains carrying quinine, bandages and other supplies, guided by tea planters, pressed even further into wild country in which refugees had to be ferried across raging rivers on rafts strung together by logs and jungle vines. Doctors from the tea plantations fought epidemics while the wives of the planters nursed the sick, wounded and exhausted.

And all this time the planters were also increasing tea production to partly compensate for the loss of other crops. In a single year they produced the record tea crop of 570 million pounds.

And that, along with the improvement in the shipping situation, and the co-operative way in which Canadians accepted rationing when supplies were short, is why the old brown teapot is in its accustomed spot again on the back of the kitchen range.

Work Of R.A.F.

How They Struck At Rail Stations In Belgium

Within hours of "D" day R.A.F. rocket firing Typhoons struck at every radio station from Brest to Belgium. The enemy's system of warning, devised against invasion day, was thrown into confusion, and the Allies achieved a great measure of surprise during initial landings. The second task allocated to the R.A.F. immediately before invasion was the silencing of ten coastal batteries within the immediate vicinity of the beach-head.

A force of 1,000 R.A.F. bombers dropped a load of 5,000 tons of bombs. Practically all the batteries were accounted for and the odd one or two which were able to fire were silenced by the guns of the Fleet.

Large Air-Raid Shelter Accommodated 20,000 French War Workers

The world's largest single air-raid shelter, a 400-year-old underground stone quarry in France, is being viewed with interest by eight U.S. Air Force officers conducting a bomb damage inquiry. The quarry, used in pre-war days to grow mushrooms, is near the Renault Automobile Plant and was converted to a shelter to accommodate 20,000 plant workers. Its 100,000 square feet of floor space is an orderly labyrinth of connected tunnels 10 to 50 feet high, miles in length.

Trade names for tea come from the position of the leaf on the stem, not from different plants.

The tea drinking habit was largely responsible for the development of fine English porcelain.

Why She's a She

The question of why a locomotive is called a "she" has been referred to one of the railroaders. He says: "There are many reasons for this. For instance, she wears a jacket with a yoke, pins and shields. She has an apron and a lap, too. Not only does she have shoes, but she sports pumps and even hose while she drags trains behind her. She also attracts attention with puffs and mufflers and some times she foams and refuses to work. She needs guiding and she requires a man to feed her, but most characteristic of all is that she is much steadier when she is hooked up."

The Second Mile

F. P. Galbraith, publisher of the Red Deer Advocate and newly elected President of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, has dispatched the following message to all publishers of weekly newspapers in Canada as the Seventh Victory Loan campaign opens:

"It is from the rural districts that Canada draws her strength. Again and again governments and businesses draw their leaders from the farms, the villages and the towns have proved their quality. Now the Seventh Victory Loan faces us. Once more the boys overseas are asking for our financial support. This time it is more important than ever for us to give it. The enemy is reeling but not out. We need to put in that knockout punch that will finish the fight. Buy more this time than you've ever done before and help finish the job."

Keeping The Balance

If the winter is too chill,
Summer's heat is coming still;
If the summer is too hot,
Winter's coming, when it's not
And between them spring and fall,
Not too cold or hot at all.

Training and Education— Doorways to Opportunity

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

In planning Canada's re-establishment program, its framers worked with one principal idea in mind. This was that the only answer to the problem of permanent re-establishment is a job, and that the surest way to get and hold that job is by the skill necessary for it.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Every ex-service man or woman who will be assisted in re-establishment by training is eligible to have it. There is provision for paying fees for all courses and, in addition, the ex-service man or woman may receive maintenance grants up to:

$60 monthly if single;
$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances.

This training is available for the period of service to a maximum of one year, but can be extended beyond that period, if necessary, and if service is more than one year.

EDUCATIONAL TRAINING

This is available to all who are admitted to university within 15 months of discharge and, as in vocational training, fees are paid and there are maintenance allowances up to:

$60 monthly for a single man;
$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with allowances for dependent children.

These allowances will be continued on a month for month basis of the time in the services, providing all examinations are passed. Outstanding students may have assistance continued to completion of the course.

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

Under the re-establishment program Canada's veterans who, within 18 months of discharge from the services, because ill or unemployed may draw maintenance allowances up to $50 if single and $70 for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances. The out-of-work benefits are for those fit and able to work, but for whom there is no work immediately available. In the case of serious illness there is free treatment and hospitalization for any condition in the year following discharge.

As a further security measure, every veteran who enters insurable employment is entitled, after 15 weeks in that employment, to unemployment insurance credit as though the whole period in the services since July 1, 1941, had been spent in the insurable employment.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

Issued under the authority of Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of
VETERANS' AFFAIRS

FARMERS!

WILL YOU HELP THIS WINTER?

If you are not required on the farm this winter you should take other work.

Extra winter workers are needed for woods operations—logging and pulpwood and fuel cutting—base metal mines, coal mines, meat packing and cold storage, grain handling, railway track maintenance, iron foundries and other high priority occupations, varying with the area.

Please offer your services to:

The nearest Employment and Selective Service Office; or

The nearest Provincial Agricultural Representative; or

Your Local Farm Production Committee.

A good response to this appeal is important to Canada's welfare—please act immediately.

Postponement of Military Training continues while in approved essential work off the farm.

The World of Wheat

by H. G. L. Strange

"FUTURES" MARKETS ON THE INCREASE

When "Futures" trading in wheat was temporarily suspended last year on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, some persons thought that this meant that the system of "Futures" trading on exchanges was on the decline. It would appear, however, that on the contrary "Futures" trading in grains and in other products is actually increasing, and is being held in higher and higher esteem.

An entirely new "Futures" market, to trade in grain sorghums, has been opened on the Kansas City Grain Market. News comes, too, that trading in corn "Futures" on the Chicago market has been resumed. The Saskatchewan Government has decided to set up a Fur Exchange for trading in furs in the city of Regina.

It is reported, too, that eight Farmer Co-operative Elevator Companies in the United States have purchased memberships in the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce which operates the grain "Futures" market. In doing this, these American Co-operatives are merely following the wise action of our own prairie Wheat Pools which for years have been members of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange where the Wheat "Futures" market is operated and which "Futures" market no doubt our Pools have found to be most beneficial, otherwise they would not have retained their memberships during all this time.

Illegal to Take Loose Coupons

Emphasizing that fair distribution of rationed goods depends upon the existing rationing system and that validity and expiry dates of ration coupons is worked out according to the supply situation, the Wartime Prices & Trade Board reminds consumers that it is unlawful to give dealers loose coupons of any description.

Ease Controls With Caution

"We have had the responsibility of imposing controls during the wartime period and we recognize we have a similar responsibility in removing them in a sensible way," said Prices Board Chairman, Donald Gordon, in a recent interview in Ottawa.

War needs over, there will be abundant materials for civilian production, but manpower will need to be directed to the most exigent channels. This will entail consultations with the Labor Department, Mr. Gordon explained.

Although the Board is working towards a speedy return to business freedom, modified control will have to be exercised to combat the inflationary tendency which could accrue if pent-up spending power is released when production is in "trickle" stage.

Coupons Pay

There are bands of non-treaty Indians who handle their own ration books and are reported to object to paying both coupons and money for WPTB rationed commodities. Once they have given up coupons, they hate to part with their cash.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that inflation came after the last war, and said "If the Prices Board is as successful as I hope, we just won't have that crazy peak this time".

Your Victory Loan Salesman Has This Letter

IT ENABLES YOU TO BUY VICTORY BONDS THROUGH YOUR BANK ON CONVENIENT DEFERRED PAYMENTS

● You say you want to do all you can to help Canada's war effort. Then you will keep on buying Victory Bonds. You will buy all you can.

You recognize the obligation that we, at home, owe to our men overseas. You know that stocks of munitions which our fighting men need are being depleted and must be replaced. You know that more munitions must go forward—and you will buy Victory Bonds to help pay for them.

You would like to be able to buy more bonds, you say. Well here is how you can do it. You can buy more bonds with money as you get it. Any bank will loan you the money to do this and the interest on the bonds will pay the cost of the bank loan. All you have to do is to sign the letter shown here—which you can get from your Victory Loan Salesman. You make a first payment of 10% or more when you apply for the bonds, and pay the balance at any time over a period of six months.

You will be doing an important war job when you do this. You will be helping your country and backing up her fighting men. You will get another reward, too, that will benefit yourself. You will have money, later on, when the war has been won—to do things you plan to do—money to improve your farm and your home.

Righting A Wrong

The price is too high."
This is the reason given, by many elevator agents, for failure to interest farmers in Registered or Certified seed. If this statement is true, it must be based on one, or both, of two suppositions. They are:

1. That mixed or "scrub" seed will give as good, or almost as good, a return per acre as will polished seed.
2. That the seed growers are making too large profits.

Both suppositions are wrong. Generally speaking, yield, grade and quality, especially of wheat, are inferior in mixed stocks. Most mixtures, found on prairie farms, contain early and late types, rust resistant and rust susceptible types, poor quality types, etc. Remember that it is not necessary to buy expensive seed every year. With proper care, Registered or Certified seed will continue to produce a reasonably pure commercial crop for several years. Therefore, the cost of pure seed must not all be charged to the year in which the purchase was made.

The question of seed growers' profits can be dismissed with a few words. It takes a mighty good farmer to be a successful seed grower. In most cases, these "good farmers" could make more money by producing commercial grain. Then, why don't they? Simply because they get fond of their pure stocks just as does the livestock breeder. They take a very real pride in their own high standards and do not measure success solely in terms of money income.

The price is not too high.

A Dangerous Guessing Contest

The probable date when cease fire will sound in Europe is important to us because almost every one in this country has a vital interest in the ending of hostilities. Given the approximate date, families of men overseas can begin to estimate the time which must elapse before they receive their loved ones back home again. Labor has an additional interest in the date, in planning for the transition period overlapping war production and the new production of peacetime goods. Business men, who must plot the future of their establishments with great care, are especially keen to have some one give them an approximate date of the conclusion of hostilities in Europe.

Thus, when at various times Mr. Churchill, General Eisenhower, General Montgomery, Admiral Halsey and others have attempted to give the public an idea of the length of time it would take to finish up the military campaign, their words have been read avidly.

But in the wake of such statements there has been a wave of other predictions from ten thousand minor and less informed circles. Especially since "D" Day, almost every man in the street has been taking a guess at the date of "V" Day.

All of this might be harmless, were it not for the psychological effect that the contest has on people at large. For one thing, many are led into the belief that the war is almost over and that the time has come for some relaxation at home. Further, when the war keeps its furious pace for weeks after "V" Day dates previously predicted, the morale of many people is unsettled.

In these crucial days preceding the final knockout, Canadians at home may again take their cue from Canadians at the battle fronts. Over there none marks time, waiting for Germany to collapse. They are all on their toes, fighting as energetically as at any previous period of the war. Over here our duty seems just as clear cut—a duty which calls us to work as hard as we have ever worked before, and to keep our production lines as vigorous as they have ever been before—through the purchase of Victory Loan bonds.

The worst inflation came AFTER the war the last time . . . to be followed by disastrous deflation, unemployment and confusion. For Canada to manage successfully the change back to peace, maintain employment, and meet the world's competition . . . we must continue to have stable economic conditions. To protect the individual from rising costs of living and later unemployment we must continue to prevent inflation.

To prevent a repetition of the conditions following the last war
PRICE CONTROL MUST BE MAINTAINED

This can only be done if production is efficient and economical, costs are kept down and consumers refuse to pay more than ceiling prices.

Solved Problem

Salvation Army Found Means Of

Assisting A Chinese Gentleman

(By J. Clinton Elliott)

Salvation Army officers are accustomed to strange requests. One day an old Chinese gentleman called on one and said: "You are an officer in the Save World Army" (literal translation of the Army's name in China). "Yes," said the officer. "You save people," queried the old gentleman. "Yes," said the officer. "You save anybody," was the next question, and the answer was still in the affirmative. "Can you save dogs?" was the next question, and though puzzled as to where this was leading him, the officer again answered "Yes."

"Well," said the old gentleman, beaming, "You are the people I want," then he went on to explain that in the Concession the police rounded up stray dogs and impounded them. If these dogs were not redeemed at the cost of a dollar each within a certain time they were destroyed. "Now," said the old gentleman, "I am a Buddhist, and the destruction of animal life is abhorrent to me, so I redeem as many dogs as I can, but I don't know what to do with them. Sometimes I just let them loose, hoping they will find their way home, but then they are caught and impounded again and I must redeem them once more. Now you can help me to save these dogs."

For a minute the Salvationist was speechless, but then remembered the hundreds of farmers who with their families had fled to his city from the worn farm country side. Their beasts and dogs had been destroyed by the invading armies. Through the winter they had eked out a living in Army refugee camps, but now the spring was coming and they were anxious to get back to their land, surely they would like to take some dogs with them. This proved to be the case, and no matter how many dogs the old Buddhist redeemed from the place, the farmers were glad to take them.

Another problem was solved to the mutual joy of Buddhist farmers, police and even the dogs!

That was not all, the old gentleman influenced many of his friends to make donations to the Army's work for refugees, so in that Chinese city thousands of dollars were received for that "Home Front!" 2559

Security Enforced

Before Canadians launched their all-out attack on the Gothic Line in Italy, security was rigidly enforced. They took down their "Canada" badges and regimental flashes. When the Nazi thought they were still in front of Cassino, the Canadians suddenly appeared before Florence and struck the vaunted Gothic Line. All towns during the security period were "out of bounds" to the Canucks. Picture shows the prank of one of the Canadian regiments after the security ban was lifted.

IMPLEMENT FACTORY

Canadian Co-operative Implements, Ltd., has purchased the machinery and farm hardware factory operated by the Gregg Manufacturing Co., Winnipeg, according to a report from J. E. Brown, president of the purchasing company. The price was approximately $400,000. Mr. Brown also intimated that the prairie provincial governments would help finance the deal to the extent of $250,000. The C.C.I. is composed of farmers of the three prairie provinces.

Keeping Milk Pure

Danger From Bacteria Forming In Milk Cans

With the exception of poorly cared for milking machines, there is probably no other utensil which may add so many bacteria to milk as the shipping can. Even where shipping cans are washed and steamed at the plant or factory, some moisture generally remains in the can. When the can is left with the lid on in a warm place, millions of bacteria grow in the moisture and seed the milk at the next milking. Lids should be removed and cans placed upside down on a draining rack as soon as possible, so that they will dry out and bacterial growth will be checked. As a further precaution, the cans should be rinsed with hypochlorite. Cans used to carry skim-milk or whey back to the farm should be emptied and washed without delay.

The chief factors in the production of quality milk and cream are clean, healthy cows and milkers; sound utensils, properly cleaned and sterilized and prompt and adequate cooling. Attention to those factors will prevent loss due to spoilage and will help raise the quality of Canadian dairy products, states the reprinted Special Pamphlet of the War-time Production Series on "Producing Pure Milk."

The term "quality milk" or cream includes a number of factors. Milk should be safe for human consumption free from disease germs; have satisfactory food value as indicated by a proper content of butterfat and other milk constituents; be free from visible dirt and from unpleasant odours or flavours, and it should keep sweet for a reasonable length of time.

TILLAGE AND WEEDS

Fall tillage is proving valuable as a cultural practice for the control of both annual and perennial weeds. While fall cultivation will not exterminate all these weed seeds, large numbers of wild oats, mustard, stinkweed and other weed seeds, will start growing, making it possible for them to be killed by low winter temperatures or by late fall or early spring cultivation.

A set of dominos can be combined in 24,528,211,840 different ways.

Importing Dogs

Government Has Placed Restrictions On Dogs From U.S.

Restrictions in the importation into Canada of dogs from the United States have been tightened by a recent Agricultural Department order, customs officials said.

The order requires examination of a dog by a veterinary and the issuance of a certificate stating the animal to be disease-free and also stating that there is no case of rabies within 50 miles of the place where the dog has been kept for the previous six months. The regulation applies to dogs from all parts of the United States.

Trial By Fire
By FAYE McGOVERN

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The captain of the American freighter spoke grimly. "This cargo of food and medical supplies must reach Shin Lee. The entire province has been isolated by the enemy. Famine and disease are imminent. It's up to you, Stacy, to contact Mr. Mu—and no one else! Understand? He's the only man we dare trust. This port is crawling with spies who will stop at nothing to get this material for themselves. Now, what is your plan?"

"Go to the Copper Kettle," replied First Mate Stacy. "Order a cup of American tea to identify myself, and wait for Mr. Mu."

The captain nodded. "Those were Mr. Mu's instructions. And the password is—"

"Clockmate!"

A few moments later, clad in an inconspicuous tourist, Stacy made his way up a filthy street to where a tarnished copper kettle swung gently above a narrow, forbidding doorway. Orders were orders, but why the dickens did he have to be the goat? It wasn't his war. He ducked into the shadowy interior and seated himself glumly at a small, lacquered table. Instantly a Chinese servant stood beside him.

"American tea," Stacy said shortly.

The Chinese bowed and vanished behind a slinky curtain. Stacy glanced warily around, found himself completely alone. To all outward appearances it was just another slum tenement. Doubtless merely a front for opium dens beyond. A sweet penetrating odor offended his nostrils. He frowned, then shrugged, drumming his fingers impatiently. Opium or incense, what difference did it make? Where was Mr. Mu?

The Chinese returned, set a steaming cup before him, bowed, and disappeared again. Stacy looked at the amber liquid with distaste. He hated tea. He glanced up at the curtain stirred, just in time to see a sinister, mummy-like face swiftly withdrawing.

Stacy's scalp prickled. Holy cow! He was being watched. Better be careful. No telling who the fellow might be.

He took a gulp of tea, and made a very face. "American tea, my eye!" he thought. The sweet-scented atmosphere seemed to thicken. He fought off a feeling of suffocation. His fingers felt nerveless. The cup slipped, banged on its edge and spilled. Hang the incense! His head was reeling.

When consciousness returned, Stacy thought for a groggy moment he was in his bunk aboard ship, awakening from a bad dream. He tried to move, and couldn't. He was bound hand and foot, face up, on some sort of a bamboo rack. He could see nothing but a damp clay ceiling and walls, lighted dimly by flickering candles. An underground room, he conjectured. He tried to raise his head and found that a band of cloth across his forehead made it impossible.

Suddenly the evil face of the curtain appeared above him. Stacy was startled first, then furious. He opened his mouth to demand an explanation, then snapped it shut. He wouldn't give the enemy satisfaction.

"Where is the American cargo to be landed?" The voice was menacing.

Stacy coldly returned the man's stare.

"The American does not wish to talk!" The face moved out of sight.

"What a pity!"

Something brushed against Stacy's feet. A tingle leaped through him. They were bare!

The man spoke from near his feet, his voice oily with insinuation. "The enemies of China have ingenious means of persuading the most reluctant. Perhaps this—"

Stacy's instep was seared by something hot. Torture! Cold sweat broke out on his brow. He clenched his fists.

"Perhaps the other foot," the voice purred.

Stacy caught his breath. "Go ahead, you slant-eyed mummy!" he thought bitterly. "Maine me for life. Cripple me. Burn my feet off. You'll get nothing out of me! Not while women and children are—"

A line of fire crisscrossed his soles. Again, and again. His fingernails cut deep into his palms. Every nerve in his body shrieked. Through pained eyes he thought he saw himself rising. He clenched his eyes, gritted his teeth, and tensed himself for more. But instead, miraculously, he felt something cold smeared over his soles. Then fingers worked at his bonds, fumbling in their haste.

Stacy struggled to sit up, furious. "Thought you could make me talk, eh?" He yanked the cloth from his forehead. "Burn my feet off, will you?"

His torturer backed away. "The human imagination is a potent force," he protested. "I assure you, the burns are merely superficial."

"Never mind the verbal salvo!" Stacy roared. "I saw smoke!"

"Dry ice vaporizes."

"Dry ice!"

The man folded his hands humbly. "You will forgive a foolish old man," he pleaded. "We dare take no chances. Our people in Shin Lee Province must not perish because of our carelessness. We had to prove, in our own way, your worthiness to share our secrets. Had you succeeded to us, so might you also have capitulated to the enemy. Is it not so?"

Stacy's eyes narrowed. "Say, who the devil are you?"

The parchment-like face softened. "With humility and pride I make my self known to you, courageous air. Clockmate."

Stacy swept the gaunt figure with belittling eyes, unconvinced then stared, appalled, at the man's feet. They were mere stumps, bound round and round with cloth. Something more than dry ice had been used there. Yet this man still dared defy his enemies.

Stacy gulped, grinned sheepily, and extended an apologetic hand. "The humidity is all mine, Mr. Mu. Where do we go from here?"

The Third Reich

Is Now Prostrate At The Feet Of Its Enemies

Nothing could express world opinion better than a short paragraph from Sweden's "Goeteborgs Posten" of September 10th. This paper from a persistently neutral country wrote:

"The Third Reich is no longer able to seize the throats of its neighbors. It will soon be lying at the feet of its enemies. The road home for German occupation troops from the Balkans will certainly pass through Allied prison camps. Now the battle for Germany has begun. The tramp of vast Allied armies is echoing along the German Frontiers. Wherever Hitler may look from his demolished workshop he sees nothing but fleeing or defeated armies. With large forces practically isolated in the Balkans, the Baltic States, Northern Finland and Norway, with many divisions in danger in Holland, Denmark and Northern Italy, Germany's position is much more desperate than at the time of the Armistice in 1918. There can be no doubt as to the outcome of the war. What experience have the German people of Guerrilla warfare? Do the Germans believe they can imitate the feats of the oppressed peoples of France, Norway, Denmark, Poland and Yugoslavia? It is not surprising that many races and nations who for more than five years have been labouring under the Nazi yoke, feeling Germany's predicament without feeling any sympathy or mercy."

This short statement of Swedish opinion needs no elaboration. It is clear and to the point. For the Swedes, Germany is on her back. Everyone else will agree with Sweden.

Troop Entertainment

Concert And Theatrical Parties Are Following The Armies

The military authorities have now given permission for E.N.S.A. concert and theatrical parties to go well forward and to follow in the wake of the advancing armies. Consequently, men coming out of the line to rest are able within a few hours to enjoy the greatly varied entertainment now provided by these mobile columns of artists.

There are now 20 E.N.S.A. parties in France, organized into 12 mobile columns. All the parties, supported by well-known performers as guest artists, are taken well forward and give at least two—some have given as many as four—performances a day. The women sleep in vans, the men in tents, and all have Army rations. After three weeks behind the forward lines they go back for short periods of rest at Army headquarters.

Behind the mobile entertainers, there will be performances of both vaudeville and plays in the larger theatres as they become available. Already three garrison cinemas have been opened and new films are shown simultaneously with their showing in London. Arrangements have also been made, in co-operation with the Civil Affairs Branch, for the exhibition of films in these cinemas to the civil population.

Authority has now been given to E.N.S.A. to double its forces in the Far East. Artists are already being asked to consider spending next Christmas with the troops in Burma.

ENERGY FOOD

From the time the baby gets that first spoonful of solid food until the day the trunk is packed for college, cereal constituted a good part of the daily diet. Toddlers get cereal night and morning. As school children it's their energy-starter for the day. Even in their teen years they find it a good filler upper, both at meals and in between.

Most youngsters like cereals and a lucky thing it is! Topped with either cream or milk, the morning cereal, either hot or cold, is a fine source of energy. Cereals combined with milk provide a good supply of those nutrients that children need for growth.

These cereals are smart in cooking, too. Take the matter of cookies. How the youngsters love them! Even cookies should offer food value plus flavor. Honey Krip Cookies do both for they're made with pure country honey and crisp rice cereal.

Honey Krip Cookies

1½ cup shortening
1½ cup honey
2 eggs
1½ cup apricot cream
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon soda
1½ cup chopped nut meats
1½ cup chocolate shavings
1½ teaspoon nutmeg OR
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup crisp rice cereal
Blend shortening and honey. Add well-beaten eggs and cream. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda, add to first mixture. Stir in nut meats, dates, flavoring and cereal. Drop from a dessert spoon onto lightly greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.
Yield: Two dozen cookies (4 inches in diameter).

DIGGING POTATOES

The potato, like all other vegetable crops, should be handled carefully in harvesting to prevent mechanical injury. Digging by means of a four-tined fork is still done in small areas. One good man can dig about half an acre a day, while the mechanical digger can lift from three to five acres in the same time. 2589

Spies Executed

Britain's Public Prosecutor Has Been Busy During The War

The man who brought Hitler's spies in Britain to justice—16 have been executed so far—is retiring at the age of 66.

He is Sir Edward Hale Tindal Atkinson, Public Prosecutor for the last 11 years. During this war he has been one of the busiest men in Britain.

I asked Sir Edward whether he expected to continue in office long enough to be able to deal with the radio traitors. Those British subjects who have broadcast for the enemy.

"No," he said. "That may be a job for my successor. I am going quite soon, on account of the age limit."

My successor may also have a busy time over the war criminals, but I don't know what machinery will be set up for dealing with them.

"Do I regret going before the war criminals are brought to book? Yes, I think I do. They would certainly be most interesting cases."—London Daily Mail.

BACKACHE? Look out for Trouble With Your KIDNEYS

If your back aches or if you have disturbed sleep, burning or smarting, look out for trouble. This condition is a sure sign that your kidneys are not fully ridding your blood of poisonous acids and wastes. When the kidneys slow up, wastes collect. Backache, dizzy spells, puffy eyes and rheumatic pains may follow. Your kidneys need help—and there is a time-tried, proven way to help them known as GOLD MEDAL, Haaslen Oil Capsules. These Capsules contain carefully measured quantities of that widely known diuretic called Dutch Drops. You will find their action fast and effective. Be sure you get GOLD MEDAL, Haaslen Oil Capsules, the genuine and original Dutch Drops—packed in Canada. Get a 40c package from your druggist.

CO-OP BUYS CUSHING MILL

The Saskatchewan Co-operative Wholesale Society has purchased the Cushing Mill at Tenth Avenue and Duchess Street, Saskatoon. A portion of the old wood working mill will be converted into a feed manufacturing plant and the balance until the company's present plans for expansion fully materialize, will be used for storage. The Cushing plant has been closed for a period of ten years.

WARTIME NURSERIES

In England and Wales there are now 1,500 wartime day nurseries where babies are cared for while their mothers are busy with various kinds of war work. The Minister of Health has decided that no further nurseries are needed.

Improve Peterson Block.

The old Peterson Block which was purchased recently by Mrs. W. McCulloch, is now undergoing considerable improvements, and when completed will be a decided asset to the town.

New floors are being laid in the downstairs and main level laid in the hallways. The rooms are being decorated and some new furniture installed.

In the spring it is intended to remodel and stucco the front, paint and other improvements.

We suppose from now on the name will be the McCulloch Apartments.

Weddings.GILLESPIE-SHANTZ

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gillespie, Breton, Alta., was the scene of a quiet wedding on Sunday, October 15, at 11:00 a.m., when their second son, David Gillespie, was united in marriage to Miss Alberta Elizabeth Shantz, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Shantz, Didsbury. Rev. R. E. Lytle performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in a lovely white crepe dress, and carried a white testament. The bridesmaid, Miss Elaine Gillespie, sister of the groom, wore a rose crepe dress.

The groom was supported by his brother, Kenneth Gillespie

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Gillespie home.

The happy couple spent a few days in the Didsbury district, leaving Tuesday morning for Vancouver, where they will make their home.
